Briefs.

An adjourned meeting of the common council will be held this evening.

Janesville Chapter No. 5, R. A. M. occupy Masonic hall this evening.

The illegal voting on election day, is being thoroughly discussed by our people, and may result in some good.

The breaking of the hind wheel of a buggy on West Milwaukee street, caused a crowd to assemble around the wreck this afternoon.

We have received from A. G. Spaulding & Bros., Chicago, the schedule of base ball games for 1884, which is published in a handy form, and will be very useful to the admirers of the base ball in keeping track of the games.

There will be a meeting of the Baptist church and society at the lecture room of the Congregational church, on Friday, April 4th, at 7:30 o'clock, to consider the plans which have been prepared for the new church edifice.

An enthusiastic third ward low-licensee man says "the worst thing that happened in this city on election day, was the defeat of Mr. Cox for alderman in the second ward, by such a man as Clark Burnham." This assertion will cause the friends of the above gentleman to smile.

The two Odd Fellows lodges in this city are making arrangements for a grand entertainment in one of the public halls on the evening of April 25th, the 65th anniversary of the establishment of the order in America. The entertainment will conclude with a grand dance. Particulars of the entertainment and the programme will be given hereafter.

Mr. A. E. Stevens, the proprietor of the tobacco sweating establishment near the Northwestern freight house, is doing considerable business in wholesaling tobacco. He has just made sales of old tobacco, crop of '82—80 cases for New York city; 85 cases to Iowa, Michigan, and 25 cases to Chicago parties. His sweating establishment is a success and we are glad that he is thus working up a good trade in tobacco in this city.

Dr. Charles L. Sutherland is now furnishing rooms in the Myers block, on West Milwaukee street, for the purpose of opening an office for the practice of medicine in this city. Dr. Sutherland is a young man, well known here, and is a son of Hon. James Sutherland. He studied in Dr. Loomis' office for some years, and graduated from the Chicago medical college, class of '83, with high honors, is a close student, and a man who is bound to win success.

A little food for reflection from the Beloit Free Press: "The city of Janesville fairly outdid herself Tuesday in the matter of democratic majorities by giving the democratic low license candidate for mayor 442 majority. The only ray of light in the election there is the reelection of Charles E. Church, republican, for city clerk. If it is through defeat wisdom is gained, how very wise the republicans of our sister city will be one of these days."

There having been considerable said the past few days concerning the deadly work of the Gatlin gun, and its use in the Cincinnati riot, we sent to Madison and procured one of the cartridges used in the Gatlin gun at the capital. This shell is of 45-caliber, central fire, elongated ball, and we should judge that the Madison gun is one of the smallest size. Nevertheless, it is capable of throwing out forty shots per minute, and the shell before us appears to be able to get to almost any place where it is aimed. The curious can see it at this office.

Mr. Fred Stillson is giving his saloon, in the Watson block, on West Milwaukee street, a thorough refitting. New and costly paper is to decorate the walls, a new bar and furniture throughout. He has just received a new bar mirror, the plate being 14x36 inches in size, being the largest mirror west of Chicago. The frame of this large glass is a beautiful piece of wood work, consisting of ash, cherry, mahogany and ebony, richly carved, and making the most beautiful combination of wood. The bar and fixtures will correspond in style and finish, making the saloon one of the best furnished in the west. Mr. Stillson intends to have a grand opening on Monday evening.

The business portion of North Main street was thrown into considerable excitement at half-past ten o'clock this morning, by a runaway team. A team of horses belonging to Mr. John Taylor, drawing a heavy wagon, with a hay-rack full of empty barrels, became frightened at the Milwaukee street crossing, and started up North Main street on a run. The driver caught the horses by the bit, but could not hold them, but he held to his grip, and is now doing his team crowded close to the sidewalk on the east side of the street. When nearly North First street, the driver coming in contact with a buggy was forced to let go of the bit, when one of the horses jumped upon the sidewalk. At the corner they straddled the post which supports the sign of Al. Bender's saloon, knocking it down and breaking it in several pieces, and badly damaging the handsome sign. Here one of the horses fell, the pole of the wagon was broken, the hay-rack wrecked, and the barrels deposited into the streets, rolling in every direction. The harness was also badly damaged, but the horses, at first supposed to be hurt by the fall, were uninjured, and all the damage consisted in the breaking of the wagon, harness, rack, and the wreck of the sign.

Prentice & Evenson, opposite postoffice, sell Adolphors.

The Governor's Guard. Special orders No. 7, issued by Adjutant General Chandler P. Chapman has been received in this city, from which we take the following paragraphs:—

I. Company "A"—Governor's guard, of Madison—Captain William Helm commanding, is hereby detached from the 4th battalion, and assigned to the 1st Regiment, Wisconsin National Guard as Company "I" of said regiment.

IV. The commanding officer of said company will report in writing to the colonel commanding the First Regiment, on receipt of this order.

Political Lectures.

It is amusing, and sometimes, perhaps, annoying, to be in a group of successful candidates the day after an election. They are generally called upon by their political friends for the purpose of offering congratulations, and having a few words of friendly chat over the result of the campaign, which is all very pleasant to the candidates as well as to their friends, and is highly appreciated by the former. But there is another class of persons in every community, known as political leeches, void of character and principle, and seldom possessing political influence enough to control their own vote. This class of beings are generally the first ones to call on a candidate after his nomination; they know all about the politics of the ward and just how to control the boys. If the candidate happens to be a little "fresh," these leeches bleed him quite freely, and after getting all out of him they can, they then visit his opponent, and work the dead-beat game. They generally work all the candidates before or on the day of election, and then wait the result. After the result is known, they then charge on the successful candidates, and here is where the "fun," if it can be called by that name, comes in. Yesterday we found no less than a dozen of these "blood-suckers" after one successful candidate, each demanding a sum, of which the total would knock the salary of the officer out of sight. Some insisted that they had spent four and five dollars in securing votes for him, and thought it was no more than right for the officer to refund the money and pay liborally for the work. One of these blood-thirsty leeches became a little "rattled" when an outsider accused him of working for the other man, and he let the "cat out" by daily contradicting the statement, and saying that he was not at the polls, but at work all day in the store yard. Once in a while this class of political dead-beats strike a mine in a new office holder, but after a man once passes through a campaign and comes out victorious, he "catches on" to these fellows, and if he is lucky enough to win a second time, he understands how to shake them off. Our good-natured, high-licensee-democratic city treasurer humorously relates how they went for him the first time he was a successful candidate in the city. [He was successful in winning an aldermanship in the fourth ward, at the time the salary was limited to six dollars per year. On election day he was sick and unable to attend the polls, and trusted his case to his friends and the democratic party. He drew the prize, and when able to be out and attend to business, the bills were handed in. He paid them all, and says they amounted to about eighty dollars. When asked by a young man how it happened that it cost that amount, Jerry smiled and said that one saloon keeper handed in a bill for the greater part, being of course for his trouble in raising enthusiasm in the rank and file of the democratic party.]

But we will cut this item short by suggesting to all candidates, both republican and democratic, that hereafter and for all times they adopt General Butler's answer to Sunset Cox—"for all of these callers—'Shoo! shoo! don't bother me.'"

It is a story growing out of the late war, and is much after the style of the "Foot's Errand." There are a great many interesting incidents related in the book which afford profitable reading. It is handsomely printed, with numerous illustrations, and is attractively bound. It is published by the Detroit News company.

The Weather. At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 32 degrees above zero. Clear, with west wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 50 degrees above zero. Clear, with west wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 34 and 45 degrees above zero.

A Handsome Remembrance. The following is taken from the Benton Harbor (Michigan) Palladium, of March 28: "Mr. Henry L. Pitcher, late of the firm of Pitcher, Jones & Sonner, one of the most prominent firms of this country, is about to engage in trade at Janesville, Wis., where he has purchased the business of Messrs. M. C. Smith & Son, the leading dealers in clothing, etc., of that beautiful city."

Mr. Pitcher began business on his own account in this city in the fall of '70, and from that time to the present has been eminently successful as a business man, and has established a reputation for promptness and integrity of which any man may well be proud. While he may well regret leaving the palace store his firm recently completed—one that is rarely excelled in the state for convenience and elegance—we are gratified to learn that if he must leave his home of friends here, he has secured very convenient quarters in a new and beautiful city, and we trust he will find as many friends at Janesville as he has at Benton Harbor, though, on reflection, we hope they will not be so numerous as to preclude the possibility of his returning to his friends and again engaging in business here. His confidence is shown in Benton Harbor by his not only retaining his real estate but, if we are not in error, he will make new acquisitions in a few days. His lot for Janesville Thursday evening.

Were They Voters? Two young men were longed around a voting place in one of the wards on election day. One of them was a graduate from Waukegan, the other had never secured to anything above a common school education. They manifested some interest in the election, and ordinarily were only waiting for an invitation to exercise the right of full fledged American citizens.

The sharp eye of a ticket vender soon covered them, and as he approached he said, "well, boys, have you voted?" A negative answer led to the inquiry, "Why don't you vote?" One of them answered "Oh! I guess we don't vote to-day."

"Why not?" was asked, "you are twenty-one, aren't you?" "Yes, I guess we are," answered the other. "I guess we won't vote." A little persuasion induced them to try it, and on a time they were marched up and voted. No one objected, and perhaps there was no occasion to. The question comes, however, and is worthy of solution by both parties. If boys of uncertain age are not positive about having obtained their majority, isn't it better to let them wait and let them settle the question in their own minds, than to urge them to commit an act not only morally wrong, but liable to be stamped as fraud. Every American citizen should be proud to exercise the right of suffrage, and a failure to discharge this sacred obligation, gives evidence of a perverted judgment or care-less indifference.

The heavy vote of Tuesday last says in plain English, that the voting population was out in force. Tammany practices have been discovered in some of the wards, and every law-abiding citizen will join with the Gazette in saying: "Let the evil be rooted out, and the guilty parties so thoroughly advertised as to forever cut our city of fraud at the polls."

Prentice & Evenson, opposite postoffice, sell Brown's Iron Bitters.

Don't let nicks and scratches catch Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve the cough and induce a good night's rest.

Murder. Last Saturday a man named Edwin R. Warren, who had come here from Glen-bulsh, Wis., to take care of E. Hall, who is sick, was found dead near Mr. Hall's house, and appearances indicated suicide.

The authorities were notified and the jury brought in a verdict that death was caused by a shot from a 32-caliber revolver in his own hand. The ball entered the head at the base of the brain, and came out on the opposite side. The physicians, Evans and Smith, who examined the corpse, sustained the jury in their verdict.

Mr. Warren was a man about sixty-five years of age, well educated and well informed upon all topics of the day. About the last conversation the deceased had with Mr. Hall was upon the subject of suicide, when he said that under no circumstances was a man justified in taking his own life. From other conversation with him it was learned that he had five children, two sons who are well-to-do residing in Iowa, the others residing somewhere in this state. Among his effects were found a bottle of morphine and numerous papers which showed that he had been interested in a patent claim and a bit stark. No cause is known for his rash act, as nothing is known of his former life. None of his relatives were present when the remains were laid out in the North Magnolia cemetery—Evanville Enterprise, April 1.

A Rheumatism that has lasted for seven years, and threatened to confine me. No matter if it be to lie all the rest of my life, I will take it. I was brought to bed upon it. Mr. Wm. S. Fleming, M.D., Pleasant, Pa., writes: "I have suffered with Rheumatism for seven years. For five months was confined to the house, and for two weeks was in bed, helpless. After using two bottles of Anker-Pain-Expeller I am entirely well and about my business."

Prentice & Evenson, opposite postoffice, sell Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

Be Wary and the Mule. A casual acquaintance with the long eared animals commonly called mules, generally leads to a favorable impression and sometimes kindles a spirit of admiration.

A more intimate knowledge, however, leads to the belief that they are too stubborn for every day use and require careful handling.

A man in the fourth ward possessed a representative mule, he was also the father of a boy who had inherited some elements of character that developed a disposition not exactly muleish but far from lamb-like; like all boys he had an inquiring mind, and his research extended to all parts of the premises. His father cautioned him about the mule, and told him he was a hard locker, but the caution was unheeded and a knock-down argument was necessary to convince the boy that the old gentleman knew what he was talking about.

As the boy was picked up from behind the business end of the long eared animal, and looking a good deal the worse for wear, the father said, "Well, John, your appearance isn't improved any, but your intellect ought to receive a benefit. Beware of mules."
